

Course Name

Introduction to Crisis Management

Course Overview

Evosec Introduction to Crisis Management Training Course is designed to give practical advice and understanding to staff working in insecure environments. This course assumes that participants are working for an organisation with a crisis management structure in place. The programme walks participants through what their role will be during a crisis as field staff and how their actions will impact the overall crisis management structures in place.

Course Objectives

The introduction to crisis management course is designed in a workshop and group activity format with example scenarios. The course is structured to lead participants through a crisis, what types of crisis management systems are in place, how they operate and what is needed from field staff for it to be successful.
