

Course Name

Kidnap and Extortion Management

Course Overview

Evosecs Kidnap and Extortion Management course is designed to develop the core skills and knowledge required to effectively manage a kidnapping and extortion incidents. This course is based on techniques that have been effectively used internationally in resolving kidnappings. Our trainers and consultants have first-hand experience in managing and resolving kidnappings on behalf of humanitarian and corporate organisations.

Participants will receive instruction on policy development, and design of procedures to mitigate the risk of kidnapping and extortion. The course sets out the planning requirements to manage kidnappings and extortion. The course will cover the analytic and decision-making processes.

Participants will learn how to create the structures and processes required to effectively deal with these types of incidents: how to interact with security forces, the media, families of victims and political and diplomatic agencies.

The kidnap management course is designed to help create a kidnap management structure that can be used in a variety of cultural environments. The course will focus on regional differences and types of kidnappings. It will detail the processes for developing strategies to mitigate and/or resolve kidnappings and extortion, including victim awareness guidance.
